SATURDAY, JAN. 7, 1899.

The present legislature evidently intends to leave as little trace as possible of the iniquities of the late fusion rule. A resolution has been introduced to chisel the name of Jim Young off the corner stone of the white school for the deaf and dumb.

A certain individual who was not a member of the Western North Carolina conference, which met at Winston, but who, on a certain important matter, loudly called for the question, is now having a high old time in the middle of the street by himself—throwing up dirt and playing in it.

Col. Harry Skinner is evidently mad at the negroes because they did not vote for him as solidly the last election as they did two years ago. He owes his seat in congress to negro votes; but now that he has been defeated he sends a message to North Carolina that the negro ought to be disfranchised. That is just about the gratitude of the average fusion politician.

Rev. Moses D. Hoge, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in Richmond, died yesterday morning after a lingering illness. As pastor of that church Dr. Hoge enjoyed a distinction which few, if any other, men have ever enjoyed. He was made pastor of the church when it was organized in 1845 and held the position until his death, covering a period of 53 years. This eminent divine filled the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in this city more than once during the life and pastorate of Rev. Dr. J. Henry Smith, and is affectionately remembered by the older members of that church. A faithful man, ripe in years and full of good works, has gone to his reward.

Lees in Raleigh.

Metropolitan Hall was filled to overflowing last night. There was scarcely standing room and not a man, woman or child could be found in the entire audience afterwards who was not charmed and completely carried away by the exhibition. The subjects furnished fun for the audience without assuming any objectionable or immodest attitude.

The performance was opened with a short talk by Prof. Sylvan A. Lee. He said the only requisite in a subject was willingness. No one can be hypnotized against his will. If you are simply willing, and think intently about the subject you are told to keep in mind you can be hypnotized.

To mention the many marvelous and laughable things done would require columns. The subjects were put to sleep and told that when they woke they would be convulsed with laughter, and some of the subjects almost went into hysterics.

At the close of the performance John D. Wyatt, of Louisville, Ky., was examined by a committee of physicians and reporters, and then put to sleep to remain in this condition in the window of Sherwood Higgs & Co. for 48 hours. His temperature was found to be 99° and he weighed 151½ pounds.

Mr. Lee announced that if parties of 25 or more would be organized in the city he would come and give them an exhibition free. He can cure persons of the cigarette, whiskey or other bad habits, but they must first become subject upon the stage. It was a wonderful exhibition last night and well worth seeing.—Raleigh Post, Dec. 28.

Mr. Elisha Berry, of this place, says he never had anything to do him so much good and give such quick relief from rheumatism as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He was bothered with shooting pains from hip to knee until he used this liniment, which affords prompt relief.—B. F. Baker, druggist, St. Paris, Ohio. For sale by C. E. Holton.

The celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of Detroit, Mich., will be celebrated in 1901.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting aftereffects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

MARVELLOUS—WONDERFUL.

The Exhibition Given By Santanelli the Hypnotist.

Santanelli, who is reputed to be the greatest hypnotist in the world, and whose performances have certainly defied the scrutiny of some of the greatest doctors as well as some of the most acute laymen in New York city, began a three nights engagement in the opera house last evening before one of the largest and most refined audiences that has assembled in the opera house this season. Nature has indeed been kind to Santanelli, his appearance is such that one can easily believe that he is possessed with the power to guide the minds of others, although he denies magnetism, his personality is full of magnetism, an eye that "suggests" wit, life and animation. The voice of a general, the personality of Mephisto in his suave mood. By the bye, Santanelli looks a good deal like the Hon. W. J. Bryan. The next four years should show which is the greater or hypnotist. Santanelli in his preliminary lecture said that hypnotism is of inestimable value to the medical profession, and that it would prove itself to be the vivisection of disease. That when he put his subjects through their actions he merely suggested the conditions or surroundings and they acted in a manner perfectly natural to the conditions so suggested. He said it was impossible to put a new idea into their heads, that he could not make them do things foreign to their nature, that it was impossible to cause a subject to lose his individuality, and therefore impossible to cause a subject to commit any crime. At the completion of his lecture he asked for volunteers. Sixty per cent of those responding were readily put under the influence in a manner entirely new to those who have watched the ordinary traveling hypnotist with his passes and alleged magnetism. Santanelli's first act last evening was the human log pile which consisted in piling rigid subjects like cordwood on top of a pair of wooden horses, Santanelli forming the apex of the pyramid, this alone will convince any skeptic as it would be impossible for a similar number of trained gymnasts to reproduce this.

For an hour the fun waxed fast and furious, innumerable ridiculous situations were made to which the subjects responded immediately and the laughter of the audience was deafening. Then came the most miraculous part of the exhibition where the subjects were put in action such as laughing, sneezing, snow balling, boxing, fencing, when at a word from this wonderful operator they became perfectly rigid and were in fact living statuary such that no painter nor sculptor would conceive let alone reproduce.

It is utterly impossible to describe the effect. After having seen the statuary it is easy to understand Santanelli's great success in New York city, and why the New York illustrated periodicals devoted so much space in illustrating this statuary which must be seen to be appreciated. The exhibition is thoroughly refined, yet one of the most humorous that has ever appeared in this city, not only creating roars of laughter but wonderment as well.—Youngstown (O.) Telegram.

Santanelli begins a weeks engagement at the Academy of Music next Monday night, every one should see this wonderful man. Prices are 15, 25, and 35 cents. Ladies are admitted free on Monday night provided they are accompanied by an escort holding a paid 35c ticket. Seats are going very rapidly, you can get them at Gardner's drugstore.

Santanelli will put a young man to sleep Monday night for 50 hours.

Bank Vault Blown Open.

Phoenix, R. I., Jan. 6.—The bank vault of the Phoenix National Bank was blown open this morning. The damage to the bank is light, as the men were frightened away before securing any booty.

Coughing injures and inflames sore lungs. One Minute Cough Cure loosens the cold, allays coughing and heals quickly. The best cough cure for children. Perfectly harmless. Howard Gardner.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, better, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by C. E. Holton.

The Smoky Chimney.

In the designing and construction of houses it has always been the expedient of Mr. Willis Polk, architect, to build a roomy fireplace, where great logs can burn, and he has always placed himself on the fact that the fireplaces never fail to draw.

When he erected his bachelor bungalow at Tiburon, the fireplace was the chief pride and glory of the establishment. He told his friends about the solid comfort he enjoyed sitting before the blazing logs, and to still further arouse their envy Polk one night gave a party. To his infinite chagrin, the chimney smoked abominably and the bungalow was filled with stifling. After they had thoroughly gazed the disconsolate Willis the disgusted guests went home to cough it off.

Next day Polk made a careful examination of chimney and hearth, satisfied himself that everything was now as it should be and then gave another party. That abominable chimney again smoked. He smoked and smoked. Willis was in despair, but the next day it was all right again. At intervals after that Polk entertained friends, and he found that the fireplace never drew when he had company, although at other times it worked perfectly. So he set a little trap, which finally solved the puzzle. There was a little cracker box, placed over the top of the chimney, which caused all the trouble.

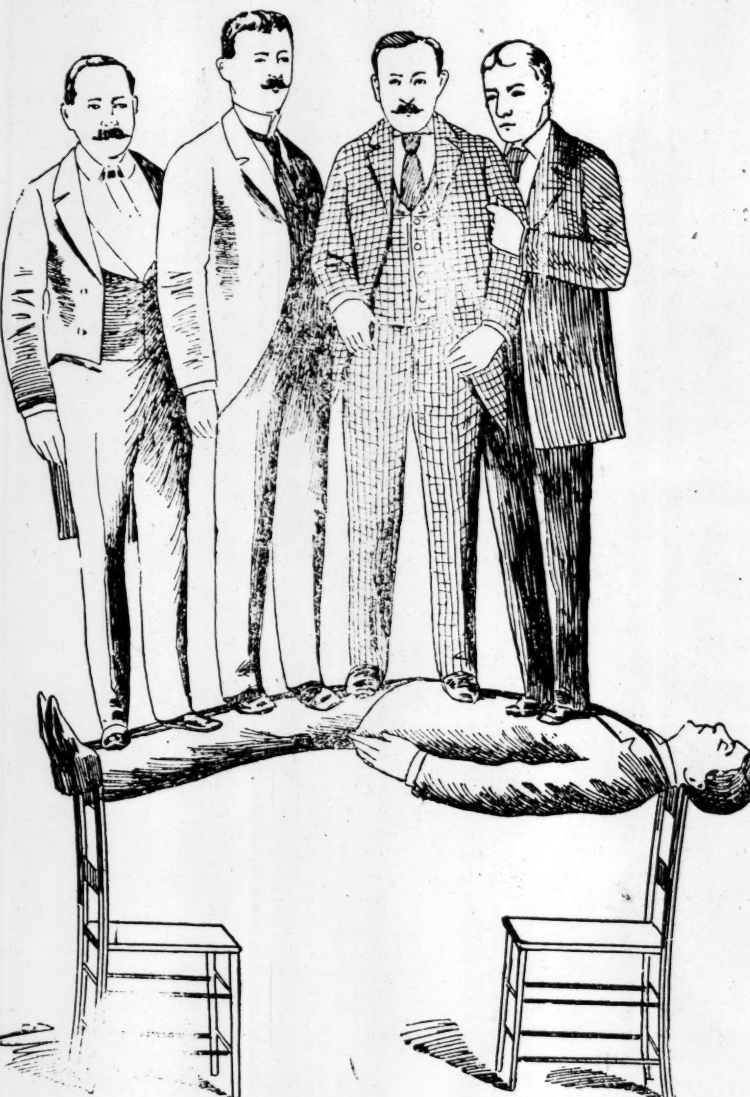

Some of his friends had thus thoroughly covered up the same error. The young architect had planned an entertainment.—San Francisco News Letter.

Optism.

Like most of nature's products opium is classified in grades. The growers of India, in white turbans and gowns, sit in the blazing sun waiting for their opium to be sorted, when they go to market. The unripe poppy seed pod has been cut into five times and the milky sap dried in the sun and kneaded into cakes, the best of which are covered with dried leaves, and thus brought to market.

Opium of the first class must be tough, smooth and a rich brown shade, bitter to taste and strong of scent. In 1892 54 per cent of the suicides in India were from the use of opium, and one statistician credits 80 per cent of the women suicides to the same drug. However, twelve-thirtieths of the opium of India is sent to China for smoking. During Victoria's reign the Chinese have paid into the British treasury for Indian opium $1,260,000,000.

The Chinese government does all in its power to check the opium habit, the punishments common in the Chinese army for this habit being extreme. For the first offense a man may have his upper lip cut, for the second he may be decapitated. For the last 60 years on an average a half ton of opium has been sent to China from India every hour.—Atlanta Constitution.

DRIVE BLINDFOLDED THROUGH THE STREETS

A Hypnotized Man Will Do This and Find a Hidden Needle

The Lee, Opera House

Monday at noon Mr. Lee will have a committee of business men drive from the Benbow House over a circuitous route to some spot decided upon by the committee while driving, dismount and hide a needle somewhere in the neighborhood. After bicycling the needle the committee will again get in the carriage and drive back over a different route to that previously taken, to the hotel, where another committee has been guarding Mr. Lee and his assistants. Mr. Lee will then hypnotize one of his assistants, blindfold him, have him mount the carriage box, take the lines, and drive at a terrific rate over the route taken by the committee, turning the same corner, driving on the same side of the street, make the same zigzag turns, stop at the same spot the committee did, dismount, take the hand of one of the committeemen, and find the needle. After finding the needle, which is but the work of a second, the hypnotized, blindfolded man will drive back to the Benbow House, again driving over the identical route taken by the committee.

The following is an interview of Dr. Maley, coroner of New Orleans and a reporter of the Daily Picayune, one of the leading papers of that city: "I was amazed at what I saw. Professor Lee's exhibition is simply marvelous. I knew that one man had an influence over another, but I never imagined it could be carried to the extent demonstrated by Professor Lee. "All physicians are familiar with the writing of Charcot, who gave a great deal of his time as a physician in Parisian hospital to the study of hypnotism, and rescued it from the hands of the vulgar and applied it to scientific methods. Prof. Lee is the best exponent of the subject as Charcot writes of it that I have ever seen. "I regard the cataleptic state in which he places a subject as the greatest proof of his ability, for he causes the subject to do things which, in his normal state, are physical impossibilities. "Beyond the irresistibly funny nature of his entertainments appeal to the intelligent and educated portions of the community, and they are accepted as scientific accomplishments, and are not the mere shallow pretences of the charlatan."

Railroad Methods.

The motive power department of a railway keeps an accurate double entry account with every locomotive and every car, so that the manager or master mechanic can tell in an instant how much it has cost to maintain and repair it, how many miles it has traveled and how many cars or tons it has hauled. A similar account is kept with every freight and passenger car. The Pullman company, for example, can tell you any morning the exact earnings of every sleeper or parlor car in service, how much each cost originally and how much has been expended in equipment, maintenance and repairs.—Chicago Record.

Enjoyable at a Distance.

"We would have had a pleasant evening if it had not been for one of the most insufferable little youngsters who was ever allowed to sit up late."

"Why, what was the matter with him?"

"Oh, he is one of those children that say the smart things that tickle us so much when we read about them in the newspapers and that drive us distracted when we have to listen to them!"—Chicago Post.

Faith in the Doctor.

An exchange quotes a story said to have been told at a "charity dinner." A man was brought into the accident hospital who was thought to be dead. His wife was with him. One of the doctors said, "He is dead," the man raised his head and said, "No, I'm not dead yet," whereupon his wife admonished him, saying, "Be quiet; the doctor ought to know best."

A Famous Head Master.

Of Keate, the most famous of all Eton head masters, the author has much to say. Innumerable stories have been told of his fiery temper, his peculiar appearance and his strong faith in the efficacy of a birch rod, many of them purely apocryphal.

All the world knows Kinglake's picturesque description of the little man who wore "a fancy dress partly resembling the costume of Napoleon and partly that of a widow woman" and has heard Keate's famous comment on the headmaster: "Blessed are the pure in heart." Mind that. It's your duty to be pure in heart. If you are not pure in heart, I'll flog you!" But it would be a great mistake to regard Keate as merely an insensible pedagogue of eccentric speech and manners.

He did believe in flogging, and when the occasion arose flogged whole-schools—witness the famous instance when he mistook his lists and flogged all the candidates for confirmation; also he could not be induced to trust his boys, but for all that he was a man of generous temper and a noble nature, as well as of indomitable courage, and deserved well of a school which has certainly always kept his memory green.—London Spectator.

To write an article for malds and mothers, and then to make it so interesting that it will rivet the attention of the fathers of malds and husbands of wives, is a guarantee of very wide reading. Professor Thurston Peck, of Columbia University, has succeeded in doing this in the paper which he devotes to women in the January Cosmopolitan. Professor Peck has a keenly analytical mind, and he weighs the pros and cons very carefully. His conclusions are tender and compassionate, but nevertheless very emphatic. It is a valuable contribution to "New Woman" literature.

When You Have a Bad Cold
You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.
You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectation easy.
You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.
You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all of these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has rivals, but, for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer and its splendid qualities are everywhere admired and praised. For sale by La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure-for La Grippe."

A Clever Trick.
It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back or weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles.
We mean he can cure himself right away by using Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

STUCK IN THE SNOW.

Dangers of Traveling by Sledge in Siberia in Winter.
Traveling by sledge in Siberia in winter has its perils, as the experience of Mr. Robert L. Jefferson and his friends goes to illustrate. The incident is told in "Roughing It in Siberia." We had chartered six sorry looking horses to drag us on to the next stage.
It was night when we started. The driver, mandrin drunk, had to be helped to his seat, and we set off along the narrow roadway at the usual gallop, which, however, soon dwindled into a mere shuffle through the snow. We had gone to sleep, and some hours after our departure Gaskell woke me and said he thought something was wrong.
The sledge was at a standstill, and our shouts to the yamshik brought no response. Black darkness prevailed. I bundled out of the sledge, so benumbed that I could scarcely move. I felt along the sledge, sinking to my knees in the snow.
The driver's perch was empty, and just then I stumbled over one of the horses, which was lying buried up to its neck. It was clear that the driver had fallen from his seat, and that the horses had wandered from the track.
The poor beasts were stuck fast, and a closer inspection showed one of them to be dead, literally frozen to death. If we would save ourselves from the same fate, prompt action was necessary.
The other horses were nearly succumbing. They lay flat on their sides, heads and snouts in the snow. We cut the dead animal adrift, and, using the spare rope as whip, we stood on either side of the living and lashed them till our arms ached. At length they moved, and by pulling and pulling we got the sledge turned. Then, step by step, with much floundering and many falls, we began to retrace our way.
All this in pitch darkness in a raw, cold wind and in momentary expectation of one or all of the horses dropping dead.
It was a terrible experience, but we regained the road and finally reached the village.

BLIND MAN'S BUFF.
The Origin of This Favorite Sport of Children and Young Men.
This favorite sport of childhood and youth is of French origin and very high antiquity, having been introduced into England in the train of the Norman conquerors. Its French name, "Colin Maillard," was that of a brave warrior, the memory of whose exploits still lives in the chronicles of the middle ages.
In the year 999 Liege reckoned among its valiant chiefs one Jean Colin. He acquired the name Maillard from his chosen weapon being a mallet, wherewith in fight he was usually to crush his opponents. In one of the fables which were of perpetual recurrence in those times he encountered the Count de Louvain in a pitched battle, and, so runs the story, in the first onset Colin Maillard lost both his eyes. He ordered his squire to take him into the thickest of the fight, and, furiously brandishing his mallet, did such fearful execution that victory soon declared itself for him.
When Robert of France heard of these feats at arms, he lavished favor and honors upon Colin, and so great was the fame of the exploit that it was commemorated in the pantomimic representations that formed part of the rude dramatic performances of the age. By degrees the children learned to act it for themselves, and it took the form of a familiar game.
The blindfolded puzsner, as, with bandaged eyes and extended hands, he grope for a victim to pounce upon, seems in some degree to repeat the action of Colin Maillard, the tradition of which is also traceable in the name, blind man's bluff.—Philadelphia Press.

His Reason.
Some of the best of Dean Pigeon's stories come from Halifax (not Sheffield).
One of them concerns a young man, Sagar. Imagine him, a venerable figure with gray hair, skullcap, gown and verger's staff. In ignorance he had married a man to his deceased wife's sister.

Sagar, whose business it was to settle the matter about the banes, was at once cross examined. "Oh, yes, vicar," said he, "I knowed right well I knowed parties. 'But why did you not tell me?' 'I should have forbidden them.' 'Well, vicar, it was just this way, do you see. One of the parties was 84 and t'other 86. I says to myself:
'Lord, it can't last long. Let 'em wed, and bother the laws!' "—London News.

A Regular Polygot.
A gentleman in a rural district drew down upon his head a storm of adverse criticism by marrying a second wife shortly after the demise of his first.
Two of those good ladies who look generally upon the surface of things and who are ever ready with condemnation were discussing the disgraceful affair.
"Why, my dear, there's his poor wife hardly cold in her grave, and he goes and marries another!" "Dreadful!" declared the other. "I never heard of such a thing." "I should think not," indeed, went on No. 1 angrily. "Marrying wife after wife like that—why, the man's a regular polygot!"—Cornhill Magazine.

The Last of the Patches.
I was born in 1887, and I have personal recollections of a lady in the early forties using them. The curate of lived in a farmhouse contiguous to my father's place. His wife was a tall, fine, handsome woman, dressed in black when I first saw her, and had patches—"beauty spots" they were called—on her forehead, cheek (left, I think) and chin. I told my mother on returning home, and she replied they were "beauty spots" and "in the fashion." I have a most vivid recollection of seeing her and her husband on the occasion. A handsome couple you would rarely meet.—Notes and Queries.

No Cure—No Pay.
That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter-nauseating tonics. Price, 50c.

T. E. Whitaker, of Oak Ridge Institute, is in the city this afternoon.

Miss Sarah Bingham, of Grafton, Mass., spent last night at the Allen.

M. W. Thompson, the new manager of the Greensboro Ice & Coal company, is boarding at the Allen.

W. A. Hunt, a prominent banker of Henderson, attended the meeting of the North Carolina Bankers' Association here last night.

Dr. W. L. Grissom left this afternoon, for Mt. Airy, where he will deliver a missionary address tomorrow, before the congregation of the Methodist church.

M. C. Stanback, of Sanford, one of the Merchant's Grocery Company's most popular salesmen, spent last night in the city, and returned home at noon today.

A. Abernethy, of the Philadelphia Record, spent last night at the Allen, returning home from Western North Carolina, where he has been spending a short vacation.

The ladies are especially invited to attend the opening night of Santanelli at the academy of music Monday. Two ladies will be admitted on one paid 35 cent ticket.

We call your attention to the elegant line of men's shoes, which Kaufmann advertises for one week only. All kinds, all styles $2.69 and $2.89, former price $3.00 and $3.50.

Register of Deeds A. G. Kirkman returned Wednesday night from Wadesboro, where he spent the holidays with relatives and friends. He spent yesterday at his home in Jamestown.

The C. F. and Y. V. southbound train due here at 11:55 a. m., was more than three hours late today, the delay being caused by a washout between Walnut Cove and Germantown. The damage to the track was slight.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina bankers association, was held in the parlors of the Benbow House, last night. The attendance was not very large, and nothing but routine business was transacted.

Lutheran services will be held in Brockmann school of music hall tomorrow, Sunday 8th, at 11 a. m. and 4 p. m., by pastor P. D. Risinger. Public cordially invited. Pastor Risinger will be found by calling at the office of Jos. J. Stone, 114, West Market street and will be pleased to meet any one.

Prof. J. J. Blair, who for several years has been superintendent of the Winston graded schools, spent last night in the city on his way to Wilmington, where he has accepted the superintendency of the city graded schools. In the removal of Prof. Blair, Winston and this section of the state lose a first-class teacher and superintendent and Wilmington is to be congratulated upon its good fortune. Prof. Blair is a native of Guilford county and has been connected with the graded schools of Winston for twelve years.

Let 'Em Try Each Other.

Next week is hypnotist week in Greensboro. Nightly performances will be given at the Academy of Music and the Opera House—Santanelli at the former and the Lees at the latter. We suggest that on Wednesday afternoon a grand matinee be given at the court house or some convenient place and that Santanelli and Lee try their powers of the mystic science on each other.

Attention, Firemen!

The monthly meeting of the Fire Department will be held next Tuesday night, January 10th, at 7:30 o'clock. It is important that the companies be represented by a good attendance.

KID DAVIS.

The Prison Evangelist At the A. M. E. Church.

Evangelist Wm. F. Ireland (Kid Davis), of New York city, will lecture here Sunday and Monday at the A. M. E. church. The pastor has succeeded in getting the evangelist to stop over and lecture for the benefit of that church. Mr. Ireland (Kid Davis) has been one of the smartest safe crackers in America, and was once a member of the famous Dalton gang of outlaws who terrorized the west for a few years; he also travelled with Kid McCoy. He will deliver three lectures to which the public is invited—white as well as colored.

Sunday at 3 p. m. his subject will be, Personal Liberty; 8 p. m., Temptations; Monday, 8 p. m., His Own Life Experience.

A New Manager.

Mr. W. S. Wishart, who for several years has managed the business of the Greensboro Ice & Coal Company and who for the past few months has been sick at his home in Lumberton, has, we are sorry to learn, resigned his position with the above company and will not return to Greensboro. Mr. Wishart has made many business and personal friends here, who will learn of his departure with exceeding regret. He is succeeded by Mr. W. M. Johnson, of Philadelphia.
